OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 17.—Oklahoma today is emerging from its most disastrous flood as the North Canadian river recedes to its ordinary narrow banks, leaving a thousand estimated at $2,500,000, railroad and highway service paralyzed and public utility services demoralized.

Oklahoma City bore the brunt of the debacle but virtually the entire Northwest, Northeast and Central parts of the state were engulfed by streams swollen by recent torrential rains.
Two are known to be dead here
Many persons are in hospitals suffering from exposure.
The waters are receding rapidly, although the Capitol Hill section and Packingtown, home of the meat packing industry here, remain cut off from the remainder of the city.

MANILA, Oct. 17.—Another San-guinary outbreak of Moros in Lanao province, island of Mindanao, was reported here today and the aid of United States troops was asked by the provincial authorities. The advisers said the Moros, charging on a ten members of the Philippine constabulary. The troops slain included a lieutenant, a sergeant and eight privates.

Details of the encounter were lack-gious fanaticism.

INFLUENCE OF JAPANESE DEMAND FOR LEAF FELT ON LOCAL MARKET

Japanese interests made their presence felt this morning on the Danville tobacco market, representatives of the Japanese monopoly being seen on the sales, accompanied by members of the firm of Pemberton and Penn. Inc., who for the past 25 years have represented the monopoly in Danville.
Enquiry at the offices of the firm
this morning as to the significance of the visit of four Japanese drew the reply from Rucker Penn that representatives of the Japanese government were here today on the market, that they were in consultation with members of the local firm and that they were buying some tobacco. No information was given out as to the quantity purchased nor the imm-diate plans of the Japanese government in replenishing its supply of native tobacco, lost in the recent Japanese catastrophe. It was further understood that the visitors had not committed themselves as to the actual loss incurred at that time.
At one of the warehouses it was observed that bags with good color and good leaf were in great demand by the firm representing the Japanese government and it was further asserted that competition on these types had reacted in a wholesome way to the farmers producing them.
While nothing authentic could be learned regarding the future activity of the Japanese government on the local market, the appearance of the visitors today, created lively speculation on this subject.

CLAIM ELWELL AND DOT KING SLAYERS KNOWN

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The slayers of Joseph B. Elwell and of Dorothy King Keenan, victims in two of New York's most notorious unsolved murder mysteries, are known to the police, according to Police Commissioner Enright, but the evidence insufficient to warrant arrests.
Elwell, sportsman and bridge expert, was slain in his apartment one night in May, 1920 after he had been the host of a roofgarden party at the top of one of the New York hotels.
Miss Keenan, Broadway "butterfly" was slain in her apartment off Fifth avenue last March.
Speaking over the radio last night on "police problems," Mr. Enright said:
"In these unsolved cases our books are not closed until the last principal involved is dead. About the Elwell and Dorothy King mysteries, many of these cases are not mysteries to the police department. The murderers are known but we have been unable to get the one per cent. additional legal evidence necessary to make arrests."
"The department never sleeps. We hope some day to get the other one per cent. of evidence. It is better to be sure of your shot than to miss."

Will Deliver New Battleship W. Va. To Navy Dec. 1st

(By The Associated Press)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 17.—
The battleship West Virginia, being completed at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company will be delivered to the Navy
December 1 according to present plans. The date is merely tentative at present, however.
Officials in Washington assert that a date has not been set for a trial run.
The West Virginia is one of the most modern and fighting crafts afloat and her crew is now being assembled at this port.
Many of the officers and not a few of the enlisted men are from the recent and the crew may come here in the next few weeks, although it is possible the bulk of enlisted men will enter the ship at the Navy Yard.
The war craft is rapidly nearing completion, although numerous improvement have been during the past few months.

SCHOOL BOARD SEEKS TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

The meeting of the school board which will be held tomorrow night at Landon Park school promises to be an important one for it will be the first one held since the American court of appeals decided yesterday that the school board could not refuse to release the negro child who is the subject of the present report of the state board of public schools.
E. Griggs. The board has been severely criticized for its failure to release the child and it is expected that the board will call for and send the statistical report which promises to be interesting.
The board's problem now is before the board is said to be that of finding an alternative plan of increasing the school facilities. It is expected that there will be some discussion on this matter before a vote when a report will be made from a subcommittee which recently reported before the finance committee of the board.
The statistical report of the superintendent is expected to show that the Danville public schools today are housing 1,400 or just about the number housed last year. The last school census which has in 1929 showed 1,400 but of this number some have already gone to college while others of course have become of school age. A glance at the number of children in school and that given in the census approximates the number unable to get into school in Danville today.
Just what the board has in mind with a view to meeting the local situation, which even with the purchase of a building near the high school is unworkable, will probably develop at tomorrow's meeting. It is possible that additional buildings will be rented or acquired in order to afford additional space.
The following tabulated report shows the number of children attending the various city schools, checked and taken from the report of the superintendent to be submitted tomorrow night.

TANK COMPANY HIGHLY PRAISED

The annual field inspection report on tank companies which trained last summer at Camp Meade, Md., has just been made public and that part of the report which applies to the 78th Tank Company of Danville, Virginia National Guard, will be of interest to the friends of the local military organization, of which Captain Ashby G. Raine is in command.

This report praises the local military company in unstinted terms and shows how well the tank unit has been drilled and developed.

The report in full follows:

1. I desire to commend this organization on the following subjects:

4.—(a) Discipline: Excellent. Above the average.

(b) 1. This also was very much above the average.

5.—Arms Equipment and Material: The men were well equipped with their arms in good condition, plenty of clothing and were well provided for.

6.—(a) Camp Administration: This was greatly satisfactory and unquestionably an improvement over the previous year.

7.—(a) Training and Instruction: It was my pleasure to have had these men both last year and again this year and I desire to commend the entire organization on the progress made. This was due to the energy of the officers and the willingness and desire to learn on the part of the men in the night maneuver at the close of camp they accomplished without assistance from the instructors, a feat that the regular army recognizes as well done.

This report, forwarded through regular military channels, came thru the office of Adjutant General W. W. Sale in Richmond. His notation follows: "Forwarded, with the congratulations from both his excellency, the governor of Virginia, and this office on the splendid record attained by your company during its encampment service at Camp Meade, Md."

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength. It holds the remarkable record of helping 58 out of every 100 women who try it—admirable!

TOBACCO NEWS

MORE TOBACCO IS POOLED THIS YEAR THAN LAST

(Special from Tobacco Growers News Bureau)

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 16.—The Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association has received over 45,000,000 pounds of tobacco from the South Carolina and eastern belts this year, according to the official report of deliveries to date given out at today's meeting of the Tobacco Association's Directors held in Raleigh. President Norwood of the association, states that the organized tobacco farmers of the eastern and southern districts have already delivered more tobacco to their association than during the entire season of 1932 with a major portion of the North Carolina crop still unmarketed.

New members have joined the marketing association at nearly every receiving point in the old belt since the Co-operative opened with higher advances than last year, according to directors from western North Carolina and Virginia who were in Raleigh today. Operating expenses of the association, including all salary and in the handling of the 1932 crop of tobacco, have come to only $1.6 per hundred pounds, according to the latest figures, following 168,000,000 pounds of tobacco delivered by the members.

Markets of the association are reporting very high deliveries and first cash payments to individuals for their entire loads which averaged over twenty dollars a hundred in the opening week.

CO-OPERATION TO SAVE THE FARMER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—In the next three years 95 per cent of the cotton and tobacco growers of the South will be enthusiastic members of co-operative marketing associations, Senator Smith Democrat, of South Carolina predicted in a statement issued today.

"The farmer, the price of those products stable, he said, and the public, as well as the producers, will know month by month a year in advance the price at which they will be sold."

Sound Principle

"For the last three months I have been among the cotton and tobacco planters of the Carolinas and Virginia," he said, "and they are aware of the soundness of the fundamental principles of co-operative marketing. Manufacture and all industry, except agriculture, are now well organized on co-operative basis. This includes labor. The stockholders in corporations are like farmers in co-operative marketing associations. When the definition came, the farmer alone was hurt. He was not organized. All other industry was."

"Because of organization all production except agriculture is controlled by the price of their products. The farmer has come to realize that he also must be able to control the price of his produce through organization. We generally recognize now that competition is the death of profits. Therefore, no longer does competition among the manufacturers nor even among labor. What we have been calling corporations are in fact nothing more than principles of co-operative organizations."

"Prices have become uniform for everything except the raw materials produced by the farmers and they have at last awakened in the States. I have recently covered to the fact that they must put into operation in their own behalf the co-operative principles which have proven so sound in other lines of business."

CLEVER THEFT OF LIQUOR COMES TO LIGHT HERE

A theft of liquor, probably in the government bonded warehouse on Monday night, was the cause of a liquor case which was opened at Patterson's Drug Store. Employees had broken open the case on arrival when it was discovered that 22 of the 24 bottles contained 100 per cent pure grain alcohol. Careful examination of the bottles revealed that the bottles had been opened on the back of the bottles by a sharp instrument and after the alcohol had been removed the bottles were sealed with a cork and a rubber band.

HEIRESS WEDS DAD'S FOOTMAN AND LAUGHS AT CASTE LINES

MRS. REGINALD DAVIES AND ONE OF HER PETS.

By MILTON BRONNER (Special to The Bee)

LONDON, Oct. 17.—"Love hoots at caste lines."

Which is a British heiress' way of telling the world—including her rare father—that she has married the man she loves, even though he was only a footman.

British society is smiling at its sleeve, but Brig Gen. C. A. Wilding, one of the most distinguished men in Wales, can't see the joke. For when he sat down to breakfast the other morning opened his morning paper, and glanced at the headlines, he had the shock of his life.

His only child, Miss Carol, had run away to be married to his footman, Reginald Davies.

It was a shock that only an old British aristocrat can get.

To get the picture completely, you must remember that this is in Great Britain where society is not democratic, however, the government may be. The Wildings who have owned Penbryn Hall in Montgomeryshire for centuries. Even in the days of the Stuart kings of England the Wildings were big folk. They were gentle, a distinguished soldier. He served with great honor in campaigns in Burma and Nigeria and also in the World War in which he was frequently mentioned in dispatches in the most laudatory terms.

His only child, just over 21, recently returned home from the continent where she had gone to the swiftest of all swiftnesses. And just about that time a fair-haired young man about 26 bobbed up.

He was Reginald Davies, son of a dock laborer at Newport. He had a good record in the war. He joined up in 1914 and served until he was badly wounded in 1918, when he was demobilized. All this strongly recommended him to General Wilding who took him on as a footman.

Presumably Davies looked mighty well in his uniform with the knee breeches. At any rate he caught the eye of the heiress of the house.

And although "it simply just isn't done, you know," it was done.

There was a speedy wooing on the part of the soldier-footman. The other day they eloped, the bride driving off in her own car. When she is 15 she will have a half million dollars of her own, regardless of what her angry father may do.

As for General Wilding, the only thing he has done up to date, has been to send a notice to all the Welsh papers, indignantly denying he had given his consent to the marriage.

So Wales keeps on buzzing. Because not only has the young lady proved the old adage about love laughing at locksmiths, but she has added her own saying.

"Love hoots at caste lines."

TO AID GIRLS OF SOUTH IN N. Y.

RICHMOND, Oct. 16.—Southerners in New York City are being aroused to the need of the educational and vocational opportunity for Southern girls in the establishment of a branch of the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance, which has headquarters in Richmond, by Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, sister of Lady Arthur, and a daughter of Dr. Orie Latham Hatcher, president of the alliance.

Mrs. Gibson, who has just accepted the chairmanship of the New York branch of the alliance, will preside at a meeting of the branch to be held in the Hotel Vanderbilt during the week of November 10-12.

The alliance was established in Virginia nine years ago and organization of the local branch is part of a general program of expansion. It has already a highly successful branch in Chicago. The function of each branch, which is composed exclusively of Southerners is that of furnishing a medium of friendship support and counsel for girls born south of the Mason-Dixon line who may be studying in the city where the branch functions.

All the sponsors of the New York branch of the Southern Woman's Alliance are Southern people. The list includes Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Colonel and Mrs. E. M. House, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. R. and Mrs. George Gordon Battle, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Dr. and Mrs. W. Russell Bowie, Mr. and Mrs. W. Marshall, Mrs. William G. Low, Mrs. August Rust-Oppenheim and Dr. William Elliott Doid.

N. C. GONE TOO FAR IN BOND ISSUE PLANS?

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 17.—Virginia has been flooded with literature distributed by the Good Road Association to make it appear that North Carolina is united on its policy of issuing millions in bonds for all purposes. Today North Carolina has authorized bond issues of $110,000,000, the largest of any state in the union, except the rich state of New York. Governor Morrison and State Highway Commissioner Page have written letters which have been distributed throughout the State of Virginia favoring the North Carolina bond issue. It is natural for these gentlemen to sustain the plan for which they are responsible. The following concerning Henderson, N. C., is worthy of reproduction, and no doubt represents a strong sentiment of fear in North Carolina that the State has gone too far in the bond issue plan:

This letter is taken from the Raleigh News and Observer.

Against Bonds For Any Purpose

To the editor:

Allow me to congratulate you on your editorial in your issue of the 10th inst. concerning Governor Morrison's State-owned ship line.

While I think very few will take the idea seriously, still in deference to the chief executive of the State it is in order for me to take the time to express a few of the negative and engage in a little sham debate on the subject—then let it die the death it deserves and be forgotten.

There are millions of dollars in this country anxiously looking for investment in profitable ventures. If there was anything in the Governor's scheme the shrewd, far-seeing business men would long since have developed it.

The Governor's message to the General Assembly not one word of economy or relief for the overburdened taxpayers of North Carolina did he advocate, but on the contrary the trend of his whole speech was to show that he was anxious to take the State on to the extent of twenty-five millions more. Let there be no cessation of bond issues and extractions of money from the pockets of the North Carolina, the Governor to the contrary, must halt and turn back or else go headlong over the precipice of utter ruin and sure destruction.

We need no more bond issues for any purpose. What we do need is strict economy and retrenchment in every department of our State government.

All these bond issues, creation of numberless offices, commissions and what not for the people to pay is little short of insanity and State suicide. It is no longer a question of whether the people are willing to pay the taxes, but whether they can pay them.

Thousands of people are now being forced to borrow money to pay their taxes or sell their property and homes to do so.

There was never a time in the history of our country and particularly of North Carolina when the people so fully realized the truth of that maxim, "the power to tax is the power to destroy."

Those in authority do not seem to realize at all the unrest among the people and the seriousness of the situation and how very near we have approached that open rebellion alluded to by a "thoughtful citizen" in your issue of the 15th inst. for people will not much longer sit quietly by and see their homes and savings of a lifetime being taken for unjust and unnecessary taxes.

And those great bond issues, aside from the unbearable taxes they impose, are hitting the farmer another heavy blow by creating a great fund out of which the laborer is paid two and three times per day more than the farmer can afford to pay—thus stripping the farmer of all desirable help.

No use preaching "back to the farm" when the State is doing everything to throttle and kill the farmer.

This legislature should issue no bonds for any purpose or appropriate one dollar not absolutely necessary.

WARRING CHURCH FACTIONS RESORT TO FISTICUFFS

TRENTON, Oct. 16.—A long smoldering spirit of discord among members of Holy Cross Catholic Church developed into violence at the morning services yesterday, making necessary summoning of about 40 policemen. The safety of the pastor, Rev. John Budjak, was jeopardized, six members of the congregation were badly cut and bruised in the fighting and 10 men were arrested on charges of assault and battery. The congregation, who were members of the church, were split by bitter dissension, the principal cause of which has been the pastor's lack of popularity among members of the flock. This feeling has become increasingly bitter of late and yesterday rumors of impending violence gained circulation.

In anticipation of trouble, Chief of Police Culliton assigned a large detail of policemen to the church at the early services this morning, but in spite of their presence there were several clashes between members of the contending factions. It was considered advisable to take the church out of action for the last mass at 10:30 o'clock. Rather Budjak and members of the board of trustees having expressed the fear that further attempts at violence would be justified as outbreaks followed when the parishioners began to assemble for the closing service of the morning. Peace was restored when the police took 10 of the ringleaders into custody. They were held in $100 bail each of a hearing tomorrow on charges of assault and battery.

ATHLETES NAVY OFFICERS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 16.—In the recent elections of class officers, the popularity of leading athletes was again indicated. The graduating class named as president Rob O. Matthews, captain of the football team, captain of the boxing team and champion heavy weight. The selection of the second class was Frank S. Timberlake, who for two years has been the champion wrestler in the 125-pound class. Royce F. Fippin, of Kentucky, football back and basketball and lacrosse player, was named president by the third class.

BANDITS GET PAYROLL

BILLINGS, N. V., Oct. 16.—Two men armed with revolvers today snatched a $2,200 payroll from Miss Maria Kelly, cashier of the local branch of the Chicago Mail order house of Montgomery Ward and company as she was returning from work. The bandits fled in an automobile.

REV. J. R. HITE IS EXAMINED FOR HIS ORDINATION

Persuant to invitation from Keen Street Baptist Church of which Brother J. R. Hite is both member and pastor a Presbytery convened at Moffett Memorial Baptist Church at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of examining Brother J. R. Hite for the gospel ministry. The presbytery consisted of Brothers Geo. W. McDaniel, J. S. Jones, J. M. Sholburne, C. J. Parker, H. N. Sowers and H. W. Connelly, ministers, and Brethren J. B. Winn and J. E. Lester, Laymen. They elected Dr. Geo. W. McDaniel as chairman and Rev. H. W. Connelly, clerk.

The candidates was carefully questioned as to his conversion, call to ministry, belief in the Bible, its cardinal doctrines, the church's mission and policy and the denominational tenets.

His clear, concise answers convinced the body that he is sound in the faith and it voted unanimously and enthusiastically for the church to proceed with his ordination.

The service will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and Dr. Geo. W. McDaniel will preach the sermon and the other Baptist ministers, of the city will participate in the program. The place of meeting will be announced later.

WITNESSES IN FARM MURDER FAIL TO GAIN FREEDOM

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 16.—Under consent of County Prosecutor Repetto Judge Smathers issued an order yesterday for the release under $5,000 bail of Herman and George Lee, held in connection with the murder of Seymour McKague, Seaville farmer, and the men were about to be liberated when a message reached the Judge from the State police not to release them, as new evidence had developed. Judge Smathers thereupon rescinded his order and the men were held. The bail of $5,000 fixed for Franklin Lee, father of the two others, was increased to $10,000. Prosecutor Repetto had been informed by Herbert McKague, lawyer for the men, that Franklin Lee had been working in a gravel pit four miles away at the time of the shooting. The State police dispute this.

OLLIE JUSTICE ADMITS THEFT OF FORD COUPE

Ollie Wade Justice, Raleigh, N. C., confessed car thief, was taken in custody yesterday along with a woman who claims to be Justice's wife and a man named Stephens. The arrest was made by Officer Towell and Deputy Sheriff J. E. Rice, of Schoolfield. The Ford coupe, found in Justice's possession, was stolen some days ago from Raleigh, N. C.

After he had been arrested and questioned at police headquarters, Justice admitted that he had stolen the car, exonerating Stephens, who was then turned loose.

Justice is now being held in the Danville jail and the authorities at Raleigh have been notified. He will be turned over to North Carolina authorities as soon as an officer is sent for him. He is willing to return to Raleigh without requisition papers.

Lloyd George Is Fatigued After a Strenuous Program

Cuts Schedule to Rest Up But Will Resume it Tonight, After Incognito Visit Around Chicago—Wife Spoke Last Night in His Stead.

(By The Associated Press.) CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—David Lloyd George, former prime minister of Great Britain, has cancelled all his engagements for today but hopes to keep his speaking engagements tonight at the International Amphitheatre at the stock yards. Owing to the continuance of a slight temperature his doctors have ordered him to remain in bed and rest the greater part of the day.

Lloyd George has a cold, aggravated by fatigue, his secretary, William Sutherland said. He added that with so much of the tour ahead of Lloyd George, and with the example of President Harding's death and former President Wilson's breakdown on tour, it was felt that the former premier's health must be given the best of care.

Sir William gave out this statement: "Mr. Lloyd George's doctors last night found that he had a temperature due to a cold aggravated by fatigue and ordered him to remain in bed. He is somewhat better this morning but imperative orders have been given to restrict his public engagements." Sir William expressed the hope that Lloyd George would be able to speak at the big meeting tonight, adding:

"We feel that with the example of President Harding and President Wilson before us, that we are under a heavy responsibility to care for Mr. Lloyd George's health. He has been called upon to make a great many more speeches than was expected. With so much of the tour left to be completed, we fear we must be very careful."

(By The Associated Press.) CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Fatigued by the strenuous program he has followed since his arrival in America, David Lloyd George, Great Britain's war premier, spent this morning resting at his hotel. His schedule for last night and today was cut to permit him to recover from a slight indisposition felt late yesterday after a trip around the city incognito, he expects to resume the arranged schedule. It was not regarded as necessary to call in a doctor for the vigorous little Welshman.

His chief message to America will be delivered tonight at a public meeting in the Amphitheatre in the Chicago stock yards. It will follow a dinner given in his honor by the audit bureau of circulation. He will leave for Springfield tomorrow to visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

Owing to her husband's indisposition,

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two for action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agent for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation. While the creosote goes on to the stomach it is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—adv.

What's Going on in the World

WEEK'S CHIEF EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART

A controversy has started between Henry Ford and Secretary of War Weeks which promises to count a lot in politics.

Ford blames Weeks for his failure to get Muscle Shoals. Not that he cures, Ford says. True, he thinks Weeks meant to injure him, but the fact is he has water power enough. No, he remarks, "It is not to me that Weeks has anything to explain. Let him explain to the farmers."

That is, Ford declares, the thing for which the Shoals really are valuable is to supply the farmers with cheap fertilizer. And this, he predicts, if "Weeks' friends" get them, is just what they won't use them for. They can afford, he says, to pay all it's worth for the property. In order to let it stay idle, so as to "retain the endless millions they now make through exorbitant prices of power and fertilizer."

Secretary Weeks' Reply

Weeks thought this statement by Ford worth a visit to President Coolidge right away. Then he issued an answer. "Reckless assertions" on Ford's part was its keynote. His reply, Weeks added, would have been "hotter if I were able to speak as a private citizen."

Graft Charges Made

The Oklahoma Legislature finally met in special session. It was called by Governor Walton to consider anti-Ku Klux laws, but many people thought an attempt to impeach Walton would be made. First, a case of huge graft scandal came to the fore. A debate started in which it was charged official corruption has been rampant ever since the state was admitted. An investigation's to begin at once.

Federation of Labor

The American Federation of Labor in session at Portland, Ore., re-elected Samuel Gompers president, after vigorously repudiating the views of the "red" element which Gompers accused of "boring from within."

Wets and Dries

The labor federation also voted overwhelmingly for beer and light wine. Bootleggers were denounced by President D'Allesandro of the International Hodcarriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union, as among prohibition's strongest supporters. W. Clark, spokesman for the Flint Glass Workers' Union, declared whisky glass manufacture has enjoyed a boom since pre-prohibition days.

In the Ruhr

When Germany surrendered to France in the Ruhr she thought France would be ready to discuss a settlement. However, France says there's nothing to discuss. Just go back to work, she told the Ruhr people.

France seems to have two ideas in mind:

- 1-To keep Germany from having a word to say about any sort of a bargain.
- 2-To arrange matters as she wants them, avoiding a debate which England might try to break into.

Asks More Power

This leaves Germany in as bad shape as if she hadn't surrendered. The Reichstag has voted a dictator's powers to Chancellor Stresemann in the hope that he may hold the empire together thus. For riots are rampant throughout Germany.

Garrett Trial Is Being Speeded Up

Prosecution Expects to Get All Evidence Before Jury Today—Judge Speeds Up Proceedings by Opening Court Early and Will Hold Night Sessions.

(By The Associated Press.) CUMBERLAND COURT HOUSE, Va., Oct. 17.—The prosecution's case in the trial of R. O. Garrett in the shooting of Rev. E. S. Pierce was nearing its close when the Cumberland court recessed for dinner at noon today. Under constant urging for speed by Judge B. D. White, rapid progress was made at the morning session which began at 8:30 o'clock despite frequent and spirited wrangling between counsel.

Irritably was apparent several times at the opening of the trial yesterday and flamed into anger on numerous occasions today and Judge White had to use oral admonition as well as the gavel in restoring orderly progress of the trial.

Of the several eyewitnesses put on the stand, the one who agreed to testify what actually happened at the Pierce home on June 5, the date of the tragedy, was the first. Others that Larkin Garrett fired first; some said Mr. Pierce had a pistol in his hand and others did not; others heard R. O. Garrett curse Mrs. Pierce, others did not.

All told eleven witnesses had been heard up to noon, including the oldest son of Mr. Pierce. Their testimony was substantially the same given at the previous trial.

(By The Associated Press.) CUMBERLAND COURT HOUSE, Va., Oct. 17.—Under the speeding up tactics adopted by Judge B. D. White the prosecution was expected to get all its evidence before the jury today in the second trial of Robert O. Garrett, on trial in the Cumberland county circuit court for the shooting of Rev. E. S. Pierce. Six witnesses had been heard when court adjourned late yesterday. The jury, selected yesterday morning, is composed of Southampton county men.

In order to get through with the case, which has been pending in the court since the latter part of July when Garrett, jointly indicted with his brother, L. C. Garrett, for the murder of Pierce, was first arraigned, Judge White fixed the hour for opening the daily sessions of court at 8:30 a. m., stated that beginning tonight he would hold night sessions. To make it possible to continue at night he had electric lights to be put in the courthouse today, the only other means of illumination being small kerosene lamps.

No surprises were developed by the proceedings yesterday and so far as could be learned today, the case was going to the defense had any new witnesses to introduce at this trial. Mrs. Pierce, widow of the slain clergyman, was one of the most important witnesses remaining to be heard when court opened.

John T. Godsey was the first witness called as court convened at 8:35 this morning, an hour and a half earlier than usual. Godsey, a neighbor of the Pierses, testified that he had run to the scene of the slaying when he heard a woman's screams on the morning of June 5. He said he saw Mr. Pierce come out of the house with a shotgun in his hand and saw R. O. Garrett take the gun away. Godsey said that he saw a pistol in Mr. Pierce's hand a moment later, just before R. O. Garrett stepped back and fired at the minister. Garrett's shot was the first he heard, he testified. R. O. Garrett fired two or three times into the minister's body after Mr. Pierce fell, he said. Larkin Garrett was standing behind and a little to the right of his brother, he said.

Mr. Wendenburg cross-examined the witness, bringing out first that Mr. Godsey saw the first stage of the Garrett-Pierce fight from a point 300 yards away but was near the scene during the shooting. Godsey's cross-examination was interrupted long enough for the jury to visit the scene of the tragedy. They were accompanied by the judge and opposing counsel.

Godsey was subjected to a lengthy and exacting cross examination by L. O. Wendenburg which was enlivened by frequent clashes between counsel in which the court had to interpose. Mr. Wendenburg brought out that he said were discrepancies in the testimony of the witness today and at the Larkin-Garrett trial. The questioning sought to show witness was an enemy of the Garretts. The witness was on the stand nearly two hours.

Willard Pierce, 17-year-old son of the slain minister, told his story of the tragedy under the direct examination of Attorney Byrd.

He testified that he was at breakfast when his mother's screams made him go to the front of the house.

"I heard R. O. Garrett say, 'beat him, damn him, beat him,' and then saw Larkin Garrett beating my father," said the boy.

"I ran in and got my father's pistol but Bob Garrett ordered me not to bring a pistol out there—that he had one." So I passed the pistol back to my brother.

"Judge Smith came up then and Bog Garrett pointed his pistol at him and ordered him back.

"A minute later I ran back to get the pistol again and my father was in the house. He went over and picked up his shotgun, leaning on it unsteadily. I asked him if I could use the pistol but he took it out of my hand and didn't say anything as he stumbled out of the house."

The witness paused a moment.

"Then I saw my father with his pistol in his left hand and the shot sun in his right, cross the porch. I saw Bob Garrett take the gun away. Then the shooting started. After my father fell Bob Garrett walked up to him and fired four shots down into his body."

He said he did not know who fired the first shot and his father was on the ground before he saw R. O. Garrett shoot.

Miss Louise Hendricks, who says she saw the first stage of the tragedy from the window of her home, next to the parsonage, also was questioned carefully as to whether or not she was an enemy of the Garretts. She insisted she was not. She testified that while L. C. Garrett and Pierce were fighting, R. O. Garrett held Mrs. Pierce, cursing her and at the same time saying to his brother: "Beat him, damn him, beat him." Her cross examination was brief except to disclose the distance she was from the scene of the shooting.

The testimony of J. M. Sheppard, another eyewitness, differed materially from that of the other witnesses. He was positive that R. O. Garrett fired the first shot and that R. O. Garrett did not fire until later. He also said he had seen a pistol in the minister's hand after R. O. Garrett had taken the shotgun from him. Sheppard also testified that of four shots fired by the minister after the shooting showed one black cartridge.

C. D. Diggs, another eye witness said he did not know who fired first as the first shot was so close that he was sure L. C. Garrett fired the second shot. He said he heard some body say "give me that" and saw R. O. Garrett take a shot gun from Mr. Pierce. He did not see Mr. Pierce have a pistol.

The cross-examination of Mr. Diggs was filled with more acrimonious exchanges between counsel, Richard E. Byrd, of the prosecution and H. M. Smith, for the defense being particularly sharp in their remarks. At one time Mr. Smith told Mr. Byrd: "You don't need to get excited."

Turning and shaking his finger at Mr. Smith, Mr. Byrd retorted heatedly: "You needn't think there's anything about you that I'm excited."

He was more feeling being shown in the case today than at any other time during the several trials and Judge White frequently had to rap for order.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.) NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—Continued unfavorable weather over the greater part of the belt put the cotton market higher today. In the first half hour the trading months rose on 26 to 29 points to 28.23 for the December position. The demand was increased by a higher Liverpool market than due, reports of more business doing in Manchester and by the unfavorable tone of the weekly crop and weather reports.

The Danville Chapter, Daughters of Confederacy will meet Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in their room at the Memorial Mansion. All members asked to attend this meeting.

SOLUTION OF PROHIBITION AND MERCHANT FLEET IS NOW SEEN

(By The Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—What might prove to be a solution of prohibition and the merchant fleet was seen by Shipping Board officials today in the board's decision to consolidate the five active North Atlantic United Kingdom trade routes and place the ships directly under its supervision. Under this arrangement, announced yesterday, the managing agent system will be done away with entirely on the consolidated routes and the agents' place taken by one or more "loading agents" to serve under contract on a straight commission basis.

The returns shown by managing agents on other routes, it was said, will be compared by the results of the new scheme.

By the new plan, Chairman Bailey explained, the expenditure of funds appropriated by Congress is placed under the supervision of public officials authorized to handle them. The soliciting and booking of freight will be left in the hands of the managing agent, a function which many of the present managing agents, Mr. Bailey said, were not qualified to perform on a competitive basis.

County Supervisors Have Curtailed The Hunting Season On Pittsylvania

The Board of Supervisors of Pittsylvania county at their regular monthly meeting at Chatham on Monday changed the hunting season in the county delaying the opening of the season two weeks.

Under the state law the bird season begins November 1st and runs until February 1st, the right being vested in the boards of county supervisors to curtail the season as they see fit. At the meeting on Monday the supervisors adopted a resolution providing that the hunting season in Pittsylvania begin on November 15th and close on January 15th thus materially shortening it.

While it is reported on every hand that game is abundant this year, the board is said to have felt that birds are too small to be shot on November 1st and this together with a decision to conserve the supply of birds as much as possible this season were factors in the decision reached. Owing to the dry summer and spring, the breeding season for birds, rabbits and squirrels was splendid and game is plentiful this year. Hunters are already beginning to secure their permits which must be secured before any hunter takes the field. The permit must be carried with the Huntsman and shown to the game wardens upon request.

state statistician while traveling over a large section of the state kept accurate counts of all fields passed in traveling over 1,100 miles. The result offered a good check on the crop reporters' data which was compiled as of October 1.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1933.

THE COMMUNITY CHEST.

It is not too early to begin consideration of the annual Community Chest drive which is to open on November 6th and which will continue through that week and during which the sum of $65,000 will be asked of the people of Danville to support nine charitable organizations which cannot succeed without a due measure of support by the people of the community. This year the amount sought is about $10,000 less than the sum sought last year, even though the number of organizations to be sustained has been increased by one. The curtailment of the individual budgets is due primarily to the fact that last year the money sought was for a period longer than a year. This year the chest will provide sustenance for a twelve months period and the individual sums sought have been carefully surveyed and by judicious pruning the sum total has been lowered. We note with satisfaction that provision this year has been made for the Boy Scouts, an organization which since its appearance in Danville has been promoted and very largely maintained by some of the local civic clubs. Inclusion of the sum of $2,000 which will defray the costs of an effective leader for these boys and one who will devote his time to their welfare will give renewed impetus to the movement and will unfold new opportunities to the underprivileged boy until the last year has not been accorded the attention in the development of social work, that he should.

The Community Chest is, we believe, approved by the people of Danville as a whole and this method of providing money for necessary organizations is endorsed. It is based on a sound business principle and the merging of the budgets into one total for which a single appeal is made has not only relieved the community of meeting constant individual appeals but has reduced the overhead to a minimum and has resulted in funds subscribed doing the most good. While it is true that some of the money subscribed in Danville will be paid in the form of commissions to the firm which has been brought here to conduct the drive, it should be remembered that the feasibility of conducting it by local talent has been weighed carefully by the directors of the Community Chest and their judgment in this matter may be relied upon after the careful consideration they have given this phase of the undertaking and their decision may be relied upon as warranted.

The Community Chest plan has been adopted in all of the cities of Virginia which are faced with these responsibilities which are found in every urban center. Lynchburg has just completed its annual undertaking falling little short of the mark. Incidentally, it is timely to quote compelling reasons for a community campaign, given by one of the leaders in the Lynchburg drive and which we quote from the Newport News Times Herald:
Because a united campaign induces more citizens to share in the community work.
Because funds spent are accounted for and the work supervised.
Because all make one subscription instead of many community chest subscriptions.
Because the community chest needs are more clearly defined.
Because each citizen has a right to assistance when in distress.
Because conscience will not allow disregard of the cry of the poor.
Because individuals cannot minister to persons in distress as efficiently as organizations.
Because it is the duty of all to help the needy in distress.

to render more efficient service. Because you might some time need the service your gift helps to provide for others.
Because neglect of community social service problems will lead to difficulties.
Because each organization will receive its fair share of funds.
Because no burden should be laid upon the community without due consideration.
Because community efforts to solve community problems have been successful, and are more successful each year.
Because the responsibility of caring for the needy, and the enormous benefits derived from this, are not shared by a class, but by all.

OWNING YOUR OWN HOME.

There is nothing that gives a person such a feeling of security as owning one's own home. It often has been said that it is cheaper to rent than to own, but is this saying true? Is it true in the long run when everything is considered?

Where does the family get to that always lives in a rented house? What happens when the breadwinner dies or gets beyond the age of work? Many a Danville family in the last few years has had the unpleasant experience of having its home sold over its head by not having the title to the house. Renting means worry; it means moving; moving means expense, often buying new things to fit the new home. It means in the end when a man has reached an age in life when inclined to take things a little easier that he must keep at the treadmill.

Buying one's own home, except in rare instances, puts a sense of responsibility on the man and his family, sacrificing some of the pleasures of the present for comforts and pleasures later. It means thrift.

The man who rents collects a stack of rent receipts. The ordinary man and family pay the rent and spend the rest, perhaps waking up when too late to a realization that they made a serious mistake by not having a permanent home.

A home owner always has credit at the bank. If it comes to the worst and there is sickness and death with unusual expenses, the home may be pledged to carry on until these expenses are over.

Local realtors are selling houses on the easy payment plan. Like paying rent, a comparatively small payment puts the purchaser in possession of a home and then by payment of a small amount a month which pays the interest and part of the principle, a family in a few years will own its home.

To say the least, a widow with a family of children left with a home has a long start on the woman left with only a stack of rent receipts and a few hundred dollars' worth of household furniture.

WASHINGTON DOES NOTHING.

With the price of sugar mounting again, we are reminded that Attorney General Daugherty was going to force it down and keep it down; also that a boycott by housewives was going to do the trick. Meanwhile it comes out that private wine-making, along with the demands for preserving fruits, is a factor in the upward trend of sugar.

Still all this does not say that the high price of sugar is due wholly to natural causes. It includes two cents a pound tariff by the Fordney-McCumber bill. Yet the administration sought to blame everything else but that.

Meanwhile the apparent inability of the government to force down the price of sugar draws attention to the difficulties of the proposed proposition to force up the price of wheat, the tariff having failed to work there as promised.

Legislative measures may help under certain conditions, but again and again it is impressed upon us that when they get into the realm of economies they may complicate and add to the burden instead of relieving it. At the time Attorney General Daugherty started out to curb the sugar prices, there were some who looked upon his move more as a political gesture than as a determined effort to act results for the consumers. That may have been too harsh; besides, in the outcome it was not good politics. It shows the administration impotent where it proposed to act strongly.

THE FIRST SHENANDOAH.

(Richmond Times.)
When the navy dispatch ZR-1 became the Shenandoah last week, the rolls of the U. S. Navy received a name that has already figured conspicuously in American naval history. The New York Herald recalls that the first Shenandoah, a ship of the Civil War, was the flagship of the South Atlantic Squadron of the Union, the other renowned Confederate privateer and the more illustrious ship of the two.
The privateer Shenandoah was built in Glasgow in 1862 for the Eastern Confederacy and was sent to the Confederacy the following year and at Madeira was specially outfitted for service as a privateer. Captain James I. Waddell sailed her around the world on a ship in the course of which thirty-three Union merchantmen were captured. She had part, up to fact, the last escape of the war, capturing ten whales in Bering Sea three months after Appomattox. A month later Captain Waddell learned from an English ship captain that the war was over. Rather than surrender his ship he sailed for Liverpool and there, under the vessel over to the British, who in turn transferred her to the American government.
May the new "Daughter of the Stars" be as lucky as her famous forbear! And may her career be such as will endear her equally to the people of North and South alike.

DRAKES BRANCH, October 17.—(Grapevine Wire.) "How To Be Happy Though Married" is one of the perplexing problems of these latter days. Columns and columns have been written on this subject, and some good advice gleaned from the grist, but the vagaries of human emotions follow an ever-widening course like the waves of the deep blue sea that beat upon a changing shore.
An independent view of the situation may be had in the following observations of a Bachelor Girl, who doubtless lives with or has frequently visited a married sister. Her contribution is entitled:
Safety First.
Mind that you keep unto yourself the knowledge of your husband's shortcomings.
For the vanity of man is like unto a guilty conscience.
Does not insist in his superiority? Though he be destined to conquer the world with his fists, yet when shrouded by darkness he tries to cast chains about the neck of woman.
As the light of day chases away the haze of romance, so the disclosure of man's shortcomings lessens his regard for woman. Even more perilous than the banana peel upon the sidewalk is the revealing eye of the keen observer.
For as a Greek god poses before his worshippers, so a husband loves to strut before the eyes of his beloved.
Not more guarded than a woman's age is a husband's imperfections.
Yet how blind is man? For where is the wife who loves a perfect husband? Great is her power if she be exceeding wise and guard well her secret.

Always Some Joy Killer.
The night is fairer, dearest girl. Because you're here.
And joy takes on a swifter whirl. Because you're here.
The stars themselves far brighter shine. Because you're here.
There's greater sparkle to the wine. Because you're here.
While life to me just seems divine. Because you're here.

There's double flavor to the food. Because you're here.
The menu's more than twice as good. Because you're here.
And twice as prompt the waiters do. Because you're here.
Each glad some service, thanks to you. Because you're here.
Alas, the check is double, too. Because you're here.

Correctly Answered.

"I cannot answer you."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Mr. Dubuque. "The next time I'm inquiring about a topic of conversation I'll mention something I've seen in the headlines. The last time I talked to a college girl I asked her what she thought of the renaissance and she said she'd never dined there."

NEWSPAPER COMPETITION
(Roanoke World-News)
Competition, frequently arising from other than sound business reasons, has had a highly disastrous effect upon the newspaper situation in many moderate-sized towns and cities throughout the country. Some very small towns, with room possibly for one weekly paper, may have two or three such publications, with the result that no one of them receives enough income to support one good weekly paper. Somewhat larger towns, with room for only one daily paper, have two or three with the same result—no one of the publications is able to produce a really worth-while paper. Still larger cities have a real field for one morning and one afternoon paper, but two papers in either the morning or afternoon field in such towns mean a distinct loss to somebody, generally to the reading and advertising public in the long run.

VETERAN OF TWO WARS DIES
WARREN, Pa., Oct. 16—Captain William Trimble, veteran of two wars, was killed near the North War State Hospital Sunday night, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ray Kittner, of this city. Kittner was locked up in the county jail and a coroner's jury is investigating.

DEATH
We are here today and gone tomorrow. A Boston real estate operator, Loren D. Toole, became fabulously rich at 40. Toole's life's dream was to build a two million dollar palace home. It was finished, ready to move into when the owner suddenly died.

BABIES
Seventy-five thousand Americans a year are killed by accidents, according to President Dow of National Safety Council. This should startle us into doing something. Especially since 10,000 are babies under five years, 20,000 are children under 15.
The bulk of these accidents, of course, are avoidable. The big death toll is largely due to our rush and hustle—the speed crazed caused by our nervously speeded-up ways of living.

JAP
To rebuild the devastation of the Japanese earthquake will require three times as much building material as was used in all the army training camps (transients) constructed by Uncle Sam during the war.

HASTE
A train in East New York, Mass., was hit by a truck today. To save time the truck driver started running across the track. Train hit him. Dead.

FRANK
Frank was in that damned abduction.

KEELEY
"What?" Keeley cried. "Mr. Ranger's private secretary?"
"Yes; just that. Yet Frank's not bad, nor is he particularly weak. I know the Combine would have four feet in a trap. He's the good young man, with the bad younger brother."

THE COMBINE
That's the gang that's got Hope—needed him, so they framed the brother, which wasn't hard to do as the goods on him were there to get. Then they closed down on Frank. He was told that all they wanted was fifty thousand dollars, which Ranger would never miss, and the girl would be held in comfort until it was paid. If Frank didn't care to assist, brother would go to Sing Sing for thirty or forty years. Frank caved. Some dope was slipped into Hope's ice-cream soda while she and every one else in that fruit shop was watching a row in front of the cashier's desk.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Hope Ranger missing after setting in motion a plan to win a reward of one hundred thousand dollars for the return of his daughter. Hope is a prisoner in the sanitarium of Dr. Bristow. Dr. George Keeley also is detained there because he knows of criminal transactions of Bristow.
Hope and Keeley manage to escape in Bristow's car. They drive to an abandoned house. Keeley falls asleep and Hope hears Bristow's voice in the yard and knows they have been followed.
Hope surrenders to Bristow and tells him that Keeley has abandoned her. When Keeley awakens he finds Juarez Charlie, adventurer and close friend of Ranger, in the room with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Now this is where you sit up and listen." Charlie tapped Keeley twice on the chest with a hortatory forefinger. "While I was eating breakfast, an unexpected caller dropped in to the jail to see me. An old bird that I sized up for a doctored I win. He is one, named Creamer, the original man who wandered all around in Robin Hood's barn. But what I made out of it was, that my man-eating constable had got word to him about your accident, and Creamer doddled off to the scene of disaster about three hours late.
"There he finds Bristow, who has recovered from a desperate attack made upon him by a violent homicidal maniac. That's you."
"Well, of course Creamer had to get all the gruesome facts, and then he remembered—he's Main Street's walking historical society—that this place, the old Rose house he called it, had some nook built into it, where in the cheery old times the family used to hide when the Indians wanted to put a kick in their parties by having a friendly little massacre of the palaces.
"That sets Bristow afire. He's all for finding it, when just then the girl turns up. No doubt but what she's been trailing around through the woods; her skirt and shoes were wet and muddy.
"Creamer says, you stole a boat and got off, and must have capsize in the storm. Several boats were found adrift this morning, two of them bottom up.
"The minute that Frank Bryan came in I saw that he was in bad shape. He's a cold fish, and I couldn't butter myself that he had worried to skin and bones overnight about my fix. I'd been nursing a hunch about him for some time, though, and this looked like a moment to put the screws on him. It worked.
"There he sat, shaking and crying, calling himself bad names and muttering about suicide.
"I told him that was all right; go to it. But first, tell me what he knew. Little by little, I got it out of him. Charlie's thin mouth clamped. "Keeley, he was in on that damned abduction."
"What?" Keeley cried. "Mr. Ranger's private secretary?"
"Yes; just that. Yet Frank's not bad, nor is he particularly weak. I know the Combine would have four feet in a trap. He's the good young man, with the bad younger brother."
"The Combine—that's the gang that's got Hope—needed him, so they framed the brother, which wasn't hard to do as the goods on him were there to get. Then they closed down on Frank. Some dope was slipped into Hope's ice-cream soda while she and every one else in that fruit shop was watching a row in front of the cashier's desk. Keeley reflected.

CHAPTER XXIII
WHEN Hope drove back through the hospital grounds and walked between two men up the steps, down which she had flown a few hours before peopling with her splendid dreams of freedom she was hardly conscious of the ignominious contrast.
Anita Copley met her in the hall, and in that full dazle of light surveyed her gloatingly, a cruel sweeping glance that took in the girl from head to foot.
She caught Hope by the arm and led her upstairs to her room, thrusting her in through the door before her. Hope tottered to a chair and fell into it.
"Come, get undressed," Anita ordered.
Hope twisted petulantly, and let her head fall back again. But Miss Copley caught her by the wrist and jerked her to her feet.
Whimpering, Hope rubbed her arm.
"So dark in the woods," she sighed. "We walked and walked, and ran and ran."
Hope lay down docilely, and almost immediately seemed to fall asleep.
Anita, after lowering the light, seated herself where she could keep her eyes on both her charge and the door. She sat upright, nerves and muscles rigid, listening for some activity below. Once she rose precipitately and stepping softly past Hope's bed, opened the door and listened. Coming back, she took up the same waiting attitude, and pressed her hands distractedly to her temples.
Over an hour, surely almost two, must have passed; and they had not brought Keeley back.
At last the woman could bear her vigil no longer. She got up again, bent over Hope to assure herself that she was asleep, then turning down the light to a spark, went out, locking the door behind her.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-

I wonder if you are interested in all this, little Marquise? If you are not you can just leave the letters lying in the little secret drawer and never peep into them. But I can tell you why I had met Ruth and Walter Burke in that out-of-the-way place.

She did not give me a chance to question but clasped her hand around my arm tightly and said, "I am sure, Leslie, you were sent to me by Providence itself."

"What do you mean, dear?"

"I'm afraid I was just about to do something I would have regretted all my life."

"Ruth, you don't mean to tell me—I hurriedly questioned."

"Yes, that is just what I do mean," she interrupted. "Walter had just about persuaded me to leave tomorrow morning for Europe with him."

"Do you love him?"

"I don't know, but oh, Leslie, I am so tired of it all and Walter has loved me for years—at least he tells me he has."

"But Ruth, that has not kept him from getting into a number of scandals with other women. Walter Burke's reputation, as you know, is most unenviable."

"Yes, yes, I know dear, but surely you can understand that even through all his protestations and his love making to other women, a man may be able to keep the one woman in his heart apart and alone."

"Could you do this, Ruth? If you loved a man could you flirt with and flatter other men? Could you let them make love to you, all the while holding him in your heart? Would you not feel that you had besmirched your love?"

"Yes, I would feel that, dear, but surely you understand that men and women are different."

"I think mostly because of the difference in a man's and woman's education. A man is taught that he will be forgiven and a woman is made to understand that she must forgive."

"Has it never struck you, Leslie, that similarly that the first year after the war the newspapers were full of accounts of women who had forgiven their husbands for marital derelictions while they were abroad?"

"Indeed, some of those women adopted the children of these ill-fated unions. But did you read anywhere of a man coming back and finding his wife with a child as proof of her betrayal of him, forgive her? I did not."

"That is just it, Ruth," I broke in, "trying to drive home the truth she had uttered. "Do you know what would happen to you, my dear, if you should take that ship for Europe tomorrow? In a few years Walter Burke would be coming back to his old home town handsome, debonair, still, an eligible bachelor. He would be ready to marry some girl much younger than himself, while you at best would be skulking around third-rate boarding houses, hoping not to meet your own countrymen for fear scandalous tongues would make you forego even that sordid retreat."

More Surprises In Stokes Case Expected Today

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Further surprises are expected when the hearing of W. E. D. Stokes' divorce suit is resumed in the Supreme court today. Anna Frances, charwoman, was on the stand when the trial adjourned late yesterday. She testified that several times she had seen Mrs. Stokes on the stairs leading to the apartment of Edgar T. Wallace, correspondent, and it is expected that the defense will make an effort today to shake her testimony.

One of the sensations of the trial came late yesterday when Mr. Stokes was called to the stand. He testified 18 minutes concerning affidavits made by his witnesses which had not been produced and Justice Mahoney ruled that no other questions could be asked.

Mrs. W. N. Brown.
Mrs. C. C. Johnson, alternate.

The business meeting was followed by a delightful program, greatly enjoyed by the large number of members who were present. Mrs. S. J. Smith, who is an accomplished pianist, rendered a beautiful solo and Mrs. J. Callaway Robertson sang two selections in her usual fine voice.

The Constitution was the subject chosen for the speaker of the occasion, Harry Wooding, Jr. Mr. Wooding pleased his hearers by presenting to them the fundamental principles upon which the Constitution is based, tracing history from which these principles were derived, and discussing the different views historians have taken. Following Mr. Wooding's address, the Regent, in the name of Dorothea Henry Chapter, presented a framed copy of the Constitution to Danville High school. Miss Charles Anthony, superintendent of the department of English, received the gift in the name of the school.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served refreshments and a social hour was spent with much enjoyment.

Undergoes Operation.
Lynwood Boisseau, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Boisseau, was taken to Edmunds Hospital last night and prepared for an operation which was performed late this morning. Mr. Boisseau has been in poor health ever since he had a serious attack of influenza and his case presented something of a problem to diagnosticians.

Yesterday quite suddenly an abscess formation was detected in the side and it was decided to operate today, this development being considered one reason for his slow progress towards normal health.

Motor to Martinsville.
Secretary H. B. Watkins and President A. B. Miller of the Danville Fair Association motored yesterday evening to Martinsville where they attended the Henry County Fair. They returned late last night, declaring the Fair to be a highly creditable one with fine exhibits and an encouraging first day attendance.

Nurses' Club Meets.
The Danville Nurses' Club held an enjoyable social and business session last night in the Y. W. C. A. assembly room nearly a score of members being in attendance. Dr. H. J. Langston had an address and entertained for features included reading by Mrs. L. W. Purdum, Jr., and piano selections by Miss Jamerson of Randolph Macon Institute. The nurses entered into a discussion of the proposed establishment of a chair in nursing at the University of Virginia, a matter which is being given serious consideration by the nurses' clubs throughout the state. At no university or hospital south of New York is it possible for graduate nurses to take post graduate work, Columbia being the nearest college where this work can be taken. It is proposed tentatively to assess every nurse the sum of $5 in an effort to secure a nucleus of the fund, then to go before the public and ask for further donations. The State of Virginia will be asked to give its financial aid. It is estimated that the fund could cost $50,000 for a chair of nursing at the University of Virginia.

Ayers-Johnson.
A quiet wedding was solemnized today at 2 o'clock p. m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Fulcher, of Danville, when their daughter, Miss Virginia Ayers, was united in marriage to Virgil L. Johnson. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. O. B. Newton, pastor of Cabell Street Methodist church.

The Danville Military Institute football team will oppose the strong South Boston High here on the Institute's grounds next Saturday. D. M. I. has already shown that it has strong material for a team this year and the coming game will furnish a real test to prove out the ability of the players. South Boston is said to have a heavy aggregation of gridiron warriors, with a backfield of seasoned men.

HIGHWAY ABOUT COMPLETED

(By The Associated Press) NORFOLK, Oct. 16.—Another link in the Norfolk-Richmond highway—an eight mile stretch between Williamsburg and Toano—will be completed this week. It will be opened to traffic as soon as the usual three weeks after pouring the last concrete have passed to allow proper setting.

Other links on the highway are steadily nearing completion, among them that of three and one-half miles north of Toano, and an eleven mile stretch beyond that point toward Richmond on which concrete is being poured.

YANKEE CLUB HOUSE WAS A MERRY SCENE

(By Chicago Tribune Service) NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The shouting and cheering that went on in the Yankee Club house at the Polo Grounds after they had won the world's championship seemed to rival the shouting of the multitude outside. The new holders of baseball's highest honors galloped off the field and into their dressing rooms in high glee, thrilled at the conquest they had just completed.

Big Babe Ruth was the first to grab Bob Meusel, the long, lanky player who had driven out a mashing single with three men on bases, sending the runners across the plate to win the game. Ruth threw his arms around the hero of the day and hugged him, shouting in his ear all the time.

Huggins was the next member of the champion to receive the attention of the players. They seized the little manager's hand and wrung it until Huggins winced. It was a joyous occasion one for which the Yankees had been striving for three seasons and they celebrated with a pent up emotion that had been growing year by year in their hearts.

Finally Joe Bush and Babe Ruth jumped on the rubbing table and above the babble of voices raised their own, calling the players to gather around. Then Ruth, embarrassed and ashamed, but happy and laughing with the rest, took a diamond ring from a jeweler's case and held it up: "Boys," he said, "we've won the world's championship and we owe a lot of the accomplishment to the guiding hand of Mr. Huggins. He has done a fine job this year in managing the team and," turning the modest manager who stood blushing beneath his weather beaten tan, "we want to present you with this ring in token of the esteem in which we hold you."

At first Huggins was literally speechless. It was several seconds before he finally raised his head. There was a sob in his voice and the hint of a tear in his eye when he spoke. "Three cheers for Huggins," the cry went up and the cheers echoed and re-echoed across the room as the players again started their wild capers of victory.

Then the closely guarded door opened again and a tired looking man with gray hair made his way through the cheering throng. Straight he went to Miller Huggins and grasping the manager of the champions by the hand, he said:

"That's a great ball team you have and I want to add my congratulations to all of those you have already received. You beat us fair and square when we were doing the best we could all the time."

Turning to the players, he added: "Good luck to all of you," and then he made his way out of the room. It was John McGraw who had just seen his fondest ambition to win 3 successive world's championships blasted.

DAILY PUZZLE

The letters "any" as an ending for a word, are not seen nearly so many times as in ending "any", although the pronunciation of "any" is usually the same as "any". In the word "MANY," we have a word of four letters with the ending "any". There is also a word of four letters that ends with "any." Can you think of it?

Yesterday's answer:

By using the letters "p" and "a" to fill in the blank squares, a word of three letters may be found, starting from any square, and following the arrows. The three words are "spa," "asp" and "pas."

Elon Is Facing Her Hardest Contests

ELON COLLEGE, Oct. 15.—With the Davidson, Lynchburg, and King college games past and gone, the Fighting Christians will now settle down to several games on their home grounds.

The most important games of the season are yet before them. The games that are gone were more or less of season's games. The result of the schedule as arranged justifies itself from the stand point of experience. Due to the number of inexperienced men that many for team each year it is necessary for them to get a certain amount of season's experience before they are called upon to face the teams that mean the most to it. For this reason it has been the policy of Coach Corbey to arrange games with teams with more experience for the first few games, and get the men under fire from real opposition, and he maintains that his team can learn more from a team that is better than to beat them. Teams that can be easily beaten, running up huge scores, look good on paper, but at times instill false confidence in a very mediocre team.

The Hampden-Sidney game looms up as a real test for the team. They are recognized as one of the strong teams of the smaller college teams of Virginia. Two years ago the Christians lost by a 7 to 0 score at Hampden-Sidney, but last year due to the individual efforts of Perry turned the tide to the tune of 13 to 6. Hampden-Sidney is being coached by Chas. A. Bernier who has returned there after an absence of several years, and he is recognized as one of the best in the South.

After this game comes Emory and Henry, at Elton, then the all-important Trinity game at Greensboro. This game looms up as the most important on the schedule up to that time. A win from Trinity will give the Christians a place on the front page. While very little can be heard locally regarding this game there is a certain feeling which seems to permeate the student body that they may slip up on the Blue Devils and give them the surprise of their lives. Coach Corbey will not make any predictions regarding the game, and says that the games are played as scheduled and no plans have as yet been laid for the Trinity game, and will not be attempted until after the Emory and Henry game on the 27th. The Elon team will go into action again on the following Saturday November 10 at Greensboro against Bob Guiford may be a stopping stone for all others who will play the game of the season against the Christians.

All Planes Dwarf In Comparison With Big Barling Bomber

(By The Associated Press)
DAYTON, O., Oct. 17.—The Barling bomber is the largest airplane. The Martin bomber, the largest airplane in use at the air service before the advent of the Barling, is a pigmy compared to it. The Barling soon is to make a tour of the country. The exact itinerary has not yet been announced, but the machine will be at New York about October 20.

The Barling has a wing spread of 120 feet, a height of 28 feet and an overall length of 65 feet. The gasoline capacity is six tons, or 2,000 gallons. The oil capacity is 3,800 pounds or 181 gallons. Six Liberty engines are required to power the Barling. The minimum crew required to operate the Barling consists of four men, but provision is made for a crew of eight.

The weight of the airplane loaded will exceed 40,000 pounds. Specifications require that not more than 5,000 pounds of bombs shall be carried at one time, but were anything so large as a 10,000 pound bomb developed, the Barling could lift it and fly for two hours.

Specifications required a flying speed of 90 miles per hour. On her initial flight the Barling accomplished 93 miles per hour with a climb of 1,200 feet per minute. With 2,000 gallons of gasoline, 12 hours flight at full speed can be made. With engines throttled or some of them cut off completely, the time of flight can be correspondingly lengthened.

A total of seven guns operated from five positions of cockpit cover the whole field in which enemy aircraft may approach. The gun defense may be augmented for day flying, in case the airplane is used for day as well as night bombing, for which it is planned.

The tail is a biplane structure forming two planes 25 per cent. larger than the main wings of the DH-4 airplanes. There are four equal size rudders.

The Barling has eight wheels with tires 60x12 inches, the largest ever made. Two wheels with smaller tires are on a truck further forward under the fuselage to prevent the airplane from nosing over. A radio set has been installed in the bomber.

W. H. Barling, designer of the Barling bomber speaking of the purposes of such an airplane, says:

"Two elements have influenced the U. S. Air Service in the production of an airplane such as the Barling bomber. These may be classified as the known uses of such an airplane and the uses not yet known, owing to lack of experience with large airplanes."

"When a large airplane is spoken of, one of some 200,000 pounds, or four times the size of the Barling bomber, one which might drop 30,000 pounds of bombs, it is not impossible that such an airplane may be the logical development of the next 10 years, the Barling bomber being a step in that direction. Hence the Barling bomber is to be loaded upon a small airplane rather than a big small one."

"Kid" Gleason Of the White Sox Offers Resignation

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—(Kid) Gleason, manager of the Chicago Americans today will end the weeks of talk and speculation about what he will do or what will happen to him when he walks into the office of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club and offers his resignation.

The acting "kid" made known his resolution in the club house yesterday after his club had won the city series, having taken the fourth straight game after having lost the first two to the Cubs, who finished in third place in the National League, three notches above the White Sox in the American.

Gleason is without plans for the future except that he will soon return to his home in Philadelphia.

Should his resignation be accepted, Eddie Collins, Harry Hooper, Frank Chance and Ed Walsh are spoken of as possibly the next White Sox managers.

The "talk" also includes the possibility of Gleason going to the Detroit or St. Louis Americans. Gleason once was offered the managership of the Detroit club and Ty Cobb, the present manager, is said to have had enough of handling the reins.

Since 1920, when the formidable White Sox machine was wrecked after the "world series scandal," Gleason has tried hard to build up another winning combination. Last spring he thought he had accomplished something towards that desire, but subsequent injuries and failure to live up to expectations put the Sox into the seventh place berth. That fellow's misfortune is what broke up the team, Gleason in the club house yesterday as he pointed to a locker bearing the name of Eddie Collins, stellar second baseman. The team was never right after that.

Gleason was injured at St. Louis July 2 and was out for two weeks. After that, the enforced absence of McClellan and William Kamm, the third baseman purchased for $100,000.

In some quarters it is believed that Comiskey will refuse to accept the Kid's resignation, although in others it is said that the Old Roman believes that, despite its reverses, the team should have been fighting for the pennant.

LONDON IS NOT EXCITED OVER RACE SATURDAY

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 16.—Interest here in the $100,000 Papyrus-Zev race at Belmont Park next Saturday could scarcely be termed intense. As a matter of fact hardly any one seems to care a great deal which horse wins and there has been very little betting.

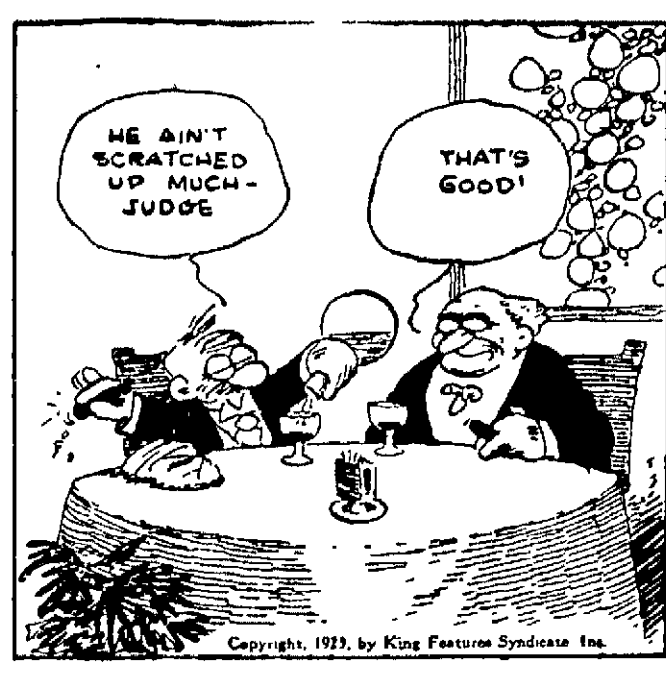

Most of the dispatches from New York have reported gloomy conditions in the derby winner's stable. Papyrus being pictured as lame from running on the dirt track and with his appetite still suffering from the sea voyage and the strange environment. Zev is also pictured as not in the best of form. One account said he was blowing hard at the finish of a recent trial run.

There has been so much "old in" in the American racing circles who do not on England's lovely turf that part of the public and apparently some of the newspaper cartoonists have the idea that the Belmont Park track is not much softer than cement.

BASEBALL NOTES

By CHARLES A. LOVETT
(By Chicago Tribune Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Jacob Ruppert, brewer and baseball magnate, owner of the New York Yankees, is the happiest man in Christendom tonight. His main ambition, these several years of his financial interest in the national game, has been to own a world champion team, and tonight his hopes were realized.

"Maybe," said Ruppert, an hour after the Yankees, coming from behind today had made the vaunted Giants look like selling platters, "the writers and fans will come to realize in time that Miller James Huggins, member of the bar of the state of Ohio and with a better job awaiting him outside of baseball than he can hope for a club manager, is a greater strategist in the pinch than McGraw or any other reputed possessor of a master mind in baseball."

Ruppert was the first to rush to the Yankees bench after the last out was made, to congratulate Huggins and each player of his entourage. It required a squadron of police to rescue the Yanks owner from the hundreds of hilarious fans who swarmed over the bar of the state of Ohio to shake hands with one player or another or to felicitate the team collectively.

The "master mind" attributed to Muggsy McGraw, must have been taxed to capacity in that eighth inning when he demonstrated in a confusion of multitudinous that he hadn't "the heart," that he had, somehow, an indomitable yellow streak. It required more sagacity than the Giants leaders actually possess to cope with a leadoff hitter who died in the defense of the ex-champion's leader it must be said that he hadn't the material with which to meet the emergency.

Artie Hoffman's assignment to hit for Pennock, since the Yanks were three runs behind, was entirely logical. But the signaling of a pitcher from the bull pen, where he had been warming up for possible relief duty, to hit for a leadoff man was unprecedented in world series annals, and yet not a writer can fail to agree Huggins made his wisest move of the entire series in calling in Bush to hit for Witt, who in 16 innings, had failed to score Nehf's delivery.

The psychology of Huggins nomination of Hoffman and Bush, too was important and played its part in the ultimate result. If Hoffman was dangerous against a southpaw, Bush was even more so, and the passing of this pair perhaps was well calculated from the Giant viewpoint, for both are long distance hitters of parts.

McGraw's substitution of a fast ball pitcher, in Rosy Ryan, for Nehf, when, after pitching two hit ball for 7 innings, he faded out of the picture, was nothing short of weird. Ryan came in to face Dugan, Ruth and Meusel. This trio finds fast ball pitching more to its liking than any other "murderers' row" in baseball. And Ryan is nothing but a fast ball exponent. Not even the light favored, or, in any measure justified the mischievous of Ryan, the sun had decided to break through the clouds which were threatening to spill rain when the game began but which disintegrated in the late afternoon.

The one surprise of the summaries is that Ruth failed to knock the ball out of the lot when he faced Ryan, with the bases filled, one out and one run needed to tie the score. To our unpracticed mind—we have been sand-lotting only a dozen years and this is but our tenth world series jamboree—Ruth should have choked his bat and tried only for a single. Instead, he took full swings at several low or outside balls and, fanning, cursed himself audibly and tore at great spikes of earth.

In the pinch, however, Bob Meusel, hiding his time and with a short grip on his big bat, waited for the pitch he could place and hammered as cleanly a blow through the box and over second as had been struck in the 1923 classic. The tying and winning runs were carried home, then, and Dugan also romped across when Groh badly played Cunningham's throw intended to cut down Dugan at third. The Giants were so thoroughly demoralized by Meusel's timely hit that Egan and Gowdy failed adequately to back up Groh, with the result that the ball carried clear to the stands and Dugan, picking himself up with no loss of time after his slide for third, galloped across the plate—standing in with the run that clinched matters.

Sad Sam Jones came in, then, and sadness was the Giants' lot. He was nicked by Young for a hit over second in the eighth, after one was down, but was forced at second and no succeeding Giant made even the semblance of a hit.

The Yanks' championship was the first since New York became a member of the American League twenty years ago. In attaining their goal they prevented McGraw's attaining his long sought record of three consecutive world championships.

Nehf's blow-up was so sudden and unexpected that Giant supporters were taken aback. He had allowed two hits and none since Ward's harmless single in the second, when after ward popped out in the eighth, Schang singled, the result of this series turned a line hit past Kelly on which Schang raced to third and the downfall of the Giants was on the way. Followed the three consecutive walks, and, after Ruth struck out, Meusel's hit placed him in the box. Strangely enough, just such a hit by Kelly in the last world series beat Bush and ended the final game of 1922.

Papyrus Makes Splendid Time

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Interest in the coming $100,000 race between Papyrus, English three old champion, and Papyrus, English derby winner, was quickened today by a series of developments. They included another impressive time trial by Papyrus, the arrival of Donoghue, famous English jockey, who will pilot Papyrus, and an offer by the Maryland State Fair Association of $50,000 for a special race on Thursday of next week between Papyrus and Zev, rival of Zev for American honors this season.

Sam Hildreth, trainer of Zev, immediately accepted the offer on behalf of his horse, but Basil Jarvis, trainer of Papyrus, declared plans had been made to ship the derby winner back to England early next week and would not be changed, unless otherwise directed by the jockey club to carry America's colors.

Sinclair, millionaire owner of Zev, declared his willingness to race his horse against My Own after the international match. The Maryland Association's offer was for a race over a distance of one mile and a half at Laurel track.

Papyrus galloped an impressive eleven furlongs in 2:24 flat today at Belmont Park, the scene of international race. The time of the California notable, according to observers, but the derby winner was under about restraint all the way and finished strongly, in contrast to the rather tired appearance of Zev after its stiff test several days ago.

Donoghue, who arrived late today on the Olympic, probably will have the leg up on Papyrus in another exercise tomorrow.

TENNIS CHAMP IS NOW MOVIE STAR

(By The Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—William T. Tilden, 2nd, the tennis champion, has become a movie actor, according to the San Francisco Chronicle's story today quoting Dr. Summer Hardy, president of the California Lawn Tennis Association. Dr. Hardy announced that Tilden would be playing in the California state tennis tournament at Berkeley this week had not the elongated racket accident signed a contract to appear on the stage.

Dr. Hardy said Tilden was to start working in the East this week.

BETTY BECKER

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 17.—National senior indoor diving champion, called by experts the most graceful woman in America, Betty Becker of this city hopes to be chosen to represent Uncle Sam in the 1924 Olympic springboard events at Paris. Miss Becker, after numerous attempts, lifted the national title in 1921 and 1922 and repeated again this year. In the outdoor tests she finished second to Allen Higgins.

TRINITY FACES HARD SEASON ON GRIDIRON

TRINITY COLLEGE, Durham, N. C., Oct. 16.—The badly crippled Blue Devil team of Trinity College faces the hardest schedule for the next few weeks that it has ever been called on to face in the four years of football at the college. The Blue Devils suffered numerous and serious injuries in the tussle with Carolina last Friday, some of which are calculated to keep varsity players out of the game for the rest of the season, especially the two tackles, Hatches and Williams.

Saturday the Trinity eleven will journey to Rocky Mount to meet the William and Mary Indians. The teams have met twice before, with Trinity getting the small end of the score each time. The Indians, however, have always had to stretch to hold the Blue Devils, and this year the Blue Devils, although crippled, are expecting to show them a nifty struggle. Little is known about the William and Mary bunch with the exception that they have played creditable football against stronger opponents this season.

The Carolina game exposed many wrinkles that Coaches Steiner and Burbage will have to smooth out before another game, especially in the Blue Devil line which failed to block effectively in the Carolina game. The end positions too will be improved before next Saturday. The Trinity backfield remains intact with the exception of a few minor injuries. The Trinity backs had a slim chance to show up against the Carolina team, every attempt being smothered from behind.

Paul Vain was out in uniform Friday afternoon for the first time since he was carried off the field to the hospital during the Richmond game. Though a bit pale this plunging backfield man has not lost any of the driving strength that makes him such a steady rebound galner.

Jim Winston and Bob Barrett are two heavy linemen who have been out of the play for several days both of whom were again in uniform Monday. And two second string quarterbacks, Walter Cameron and Bruce Carney, were also out for the practice.

Center is the only position about which there is any worry. Fred Theimer will not be able to play for several weeks, but Coleman Walker should be in condition by Saturday, even though he has not been able to report for practice. But even if neither of these are ready for the V. M. I. game Captain Stange Blackford can serve in center as he did against St. Johns even though his absence at tackle leaves a weak spot there.

Coach Nale is drilling the varsity squad hard for the game with the Cadets and practice will be held behind closed gates through most of the week.

Extra seats to accommodate the crowd that is expected for the contest are being erected by student adjunct managers under the direction of professional carpenters. These wooden bleachers will be used by the University supporters again this year.

English Jockey Who Is To Ride Papyrus Here

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Early birds, not the variety that get up to gobble sleepless worms, but those who sit along the rails at dawn and "clock" thoroughbreds in their workouts, generally are sentimentally included, but today they were keenly anticipating a reunion between horse and man.

Steve Donoghue, best of English jockeys, stepped ashore late yesterday from the Olympic on his international errand. He is to have the mount on Papyrus, champion English three-year-old, when the derby winner faces the barrier Saturday at Belmont Park with Zev, his American rival, in the $100,000 gallop of a mile and a half.

The "clockers," however, were not as much interested in the affectionate recognition that human and beast would display when they saw each other again—they part last in England—as they were in the time that would be shown and the capers that would be cut when Donoghue put the horse through a workout.

Looking every inch a jockey—he's only four feet eleven and weighs 105 pounds—Donoghue favorably impressed those who bid him welcome. He did not affect the usual jockey blazing costume and interviewers found him conservative in his demeanor and lag as in his dress. The critical found his physique thick broad shoulders and small but capable hands—adequate to handling a good horse in any situation.

With him were Eleanor, Viscountess Torrington, herself the owner of thirty thoroughbreds, her brother, Captain Robert Souray, Isaac Whitseed, attorney and personal representative of Ben Irish, the owner of Papyrus who was not well enough to make the voyage; Henry J. Homer, founder of the Equestrian Club of London, and Captain A. Sidney Galtrey, C. B. E., a London racing writer.

Gallop under wraps. Papyrus made such an impressive showing to those who saw him go a mile and a quarter yesterday, that the odds against him were greatly shortened in wagers laid last night. Skeptics said they believed he carried extra weight under his blanket and one observer asserted he wore rubber coverings over his shins and thick plated non-racing shoes.

Whether the winner of the international will meet My Own, Admiral Cary T. Grayson's horse that was the alternate to meet Papyrus, may be determined definitely today. Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, has consented, but Basil Jarvis, trainer of Papyrus, said he would ship his charge home.

Clark Griffith Won't Tell Why He Discharged Bush

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American League baseball club, refuses steadfastly to satisfy the curiosity of Washington fans as to why Owen "Doc" Bush, who piloted the club to a first division berth this year, has been released as manager. It will be the fourth successive year in which the managership of the club has changed hands.

An offer of a 50,000 purse for such a contest was received yesterday from the Laurel track of Maryland which would hold it October 25.

OFFER FOR RACE MADE

(By The Associated Press)
LAUREL, Md., Oct. 16.—Spalding Lewis Jenkins, president of the Maryland State Fair Association, which is conducting the meeting here, wired trainers Sam Hildreth who looks after Zev, and Basil Jarvis, who is preparing Papyrus for Saturday's match race at Belmont Park, an offer of $50,000 to have Saturday's winner meet Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own in a special race at this track on Thursday of next week.

up after a detailed investigation of Germany's economic and financial position places the minimum indemnity Germany should be required to pay at 50,000,000,000 gold marks. The plan recommends that this be guaranteed by hypothecation of the railroads and such monopolies as tobacco, coal, sugar, salt, wines and beers.

The Belgian foreign office recently suggested that its proposals be referred to the inter-allied reparations commission as the basis of a concrete plan for a settlement of the German indemnity question. The allies agreed to this.

Wholesale Prices

Take An Upturn
(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The trend of wholesale prices, which has been gradually downward since May, took a decided upturn in September. It was shown today in statistics compiled by the Department of Labor. An advance of nearly 2 3-4 per cent was indicated in a compilation which included 264 commodities.

Cloths and clothing with an advance of 4 1-2 per cent showed the greatest increase, due mainly to the marked advances in raw silk, printed cloths and cotton yarns, according to the figures. Advances in corn, oats, rye, wheat, hogs, cotton, eggs and hay caused the firm products group to rise 3 1-2 per cent. A net increase of 3 1-2 per cent, also was shown for the food group because of the continued advance in the price of fresh beef and pork, butter and cheese.

A net increase of more than two per cent was shown in building material. As compared with a year ago measured by the same figures, the general level of prices were shown to have risen slightly more than one-half of 1 per cent. The decrease of nearly 2 3-4 per cent in fuel lighting during the 12 years was offset by increases occurring in all other commodity groups, ranging from one per cent, in building materials to nearly 10 1-2 per cent, in clothes and clothing.

Legion Men In 'Frisco Have a Varied Program
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Problems of organization policy, athletic contests, sightseeing tours and an elaborate aerial program vied for the attention today of the delegates to the fifth annual convention of the American Legion.
Among the speakers on today's program were Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, which opened its convention here yesterday; Robert E. Bendy, of the American Red Cross, and William J. McGinley, supreme secretary of the Knights of Columbus. Entertainment arrangements for the visitors this afternoon include automobile trips about the city, luncheon, band concerts, dedication of a plaque at the Palace of the Legion of Honor in Lincoln park, a parade and exhibition at the Berkeley and an aerial circus at Crissy Field with 70 airplanes of the army and navy air battle fleets participating.
The women of the American Legion Auxiliary yesterday pledged themselves to a campaign to eradicate traffic in drugs in the United States.

WHAT WAS SEEN

BY A (COLUMBUS, GA.) LEDGER REPRESENTATIVE
Dr. Nanzetta called a newspaper reporter into his office while he was extracting a Tape Worm from the stomach of Mr. Frank Cartha. That worm measured 50 feet.

People don't know what a terrible thing this is of having worms in your stomach sapping the life of you day by day, and we can't tell if we have one or not. Sometimes as many as three come, and they are very long. Some of them measure 50, 75 and 100 feet. Think of one of these terrible human life suckers in your stomach and you don't know it until the doctor looks you over. Dr. Nanzetta can tell in a minute if you are wormy, and if he thinks this case he can extract it in short time and relieve you of that dangerous peril. The examination is free, it costs you not one cent to find out your condition.

Office hours all day, for the benefit of the suffering people, and a Free Sample of Medicine to everyone that calls. Get yours, it is here for you. It is harmless, purely vegetable.

Ball games are won on narrow margins sometimes. Babe Ruth was on third during the second inning of the fifth world series game. Pipp grounded to Frisco, who whipped the ball home. Babe came in and looked out a mile, but the big fellow, shown here just after he launched into a tremendous slide, evaded Goggin's hand, thus scoring what proved to be the winning run in an 8 to 1 score.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The cotton market showed renewed activity and strength at the opening today owing to unexpectedly firm cables and a continuation of unsettled weather in the south. First prices were firm on an advance of 27 to 45 points with October selling up to 30.20 and December to 29.47 on active general buying. These prices attracted heavy realizing, however, and prices eased off 15 or 20 points during the early trading.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

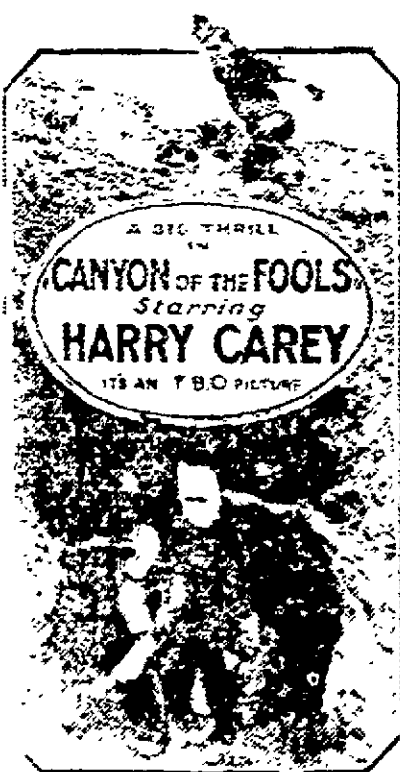

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The line of least resistance at the opening of today's stock market was still downward. Selling of Western rails, based on speculative fear of a cut in freight rates on grain was resumed, although Northern Pacific made a partial recovery of yesterday's 3 3/8 point loss. Kelly Springfield established another new 1923 low. "Big Four" dropped a point.

The general list continued heavy throughout the first half hour with selling pressure concentrated in the grangers. Leathers, some of the independent steels and specialties. Foreign exchanges opened irregular.

MORNING COTTON LETTER.

Thomson & McKinnon.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Weather reports yesterday were very bullish. Majority of traders think the advance has been too rapid and that market is entitled to a further reaction. An uptown operator was supposed to have accepted profits on a large line of cotton. We are getting into the frost period and are likely to have a scare at any moment. On any break would buy cotton.

The annual convention of the American Cotton Association at Columbia, S. C., say 36 cent cotton is aim in the south. Association also favors smaller acreage. Convention approves boll weevil control program and urges uniform system of credits to growers.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

New Touring Car

Looking at the new touring car from the side, you are at once favorably impressed with the effect of longer, more graceful lines secured by enlarging the cowl and raising the radiator.

Slanting windshield and one-man top lend material aid in giving the entire car a lower, more stylish appearance.

An apron connecting the radiator with the fender skirts is also a decided improvement.

A comfort feature much appreciated by owners, is the additional leg room provided by the enlargement of the cowl.

Allow the nearest Ford dealer to show you the entire line of new Ford cars now on display in his show room.
